THE National Republican Convention

is in session at Minneapolis.

Let every Democrat in Ohio county attend the Primary Election next Saturday.

The county roads in many places are almost or quite impassable, and yet no effort is being made by anybody to secure their improvement.

The last Grand Jury or the late Law and Order Club of Hartford, was not only derelict but criminally negligent of its duty. The one was sworn to do its duty and from the class of men who composed it, we take it such was done. About the other we know nothing, having not lately heard anything.

Mr. Ed P. Crowe, formerly of this place, late of the Tele-Two (Herald), of Edgelyville, is now engaged in connection with his brother, Rev. J. M. Crowe, in the publication of the Methodist Advocate, a bright church paper of Sikeston, Mo.

Crowe is a bright young editor and the Herald wishes him success in his new field.

Lyons county is rapidly pulling herself out of the financial hole into which she was thrown by a no longer delaying the payment of her railroad debt. There have already been paid about $15,000 of the $25,000 recently agreed upon by compromise with the bondholders, and the people say they will hasten to pay the amount in full and remove the incubus which has so long hindered their prosperity.

The Owensboro papers speak of Mrs. Celia Eppigbaum Bailey, of a traveling concert company, as the lady whom the college there "has engaged to sing at the concert."

Mr. Owensboro wants to see a sure enough college commencement and that too in which home talent and the rich voices and genius of our own folks please and delight their audiences, she should take a week off some June time and come to Hartford, where commencement is to be seen and singing to be heard.

Jim P. Miller was in Hartford Monday, but he was not heard to explain to anybody his anomalous political position. The aspect of an aggressive Protectionist running for office on a Free Trade platform is strongly indicative of the miserable degradation in politics of which we hear so much complaint. No longer are politicians content to confound their constituents with the bare assertion "We want the office," and make no pretense to candor or sincerity. We do not believe the country has fallen so low as to deem this course honorable.

At Owensboro last week, Dan Jones, who had once been charged with murder, was arrested and lodged in jail, charged with larceny. The jailer turned him in a corridor with two prisoners—Bryant Lipscomb and Ed Elam—who were confined there, one of them protesting against being locked up with a crazy man. His protest was unheeded, however, and after they had been some hours in the cell, Jones slipped up behind Lipscomb and without warning, grabbed him around the neck and began to pound a small knife into his face. Elam came to the rescue and was also cut. Jones was finally overpowered and now the jailer of Davis county ought to be given a job running the asylum and a man put in charge of the jail who will give some attention to the unfortunate men and women placed in his keeping.

The political world was thrown into violent agitation Saturday by the retirement of Secretary of State, James G. Blaine from Mr. Harrison's cabinet. The note carrying his resignation was a curt one, and evoked from Mr. Harrison an equally curt reply. Coming as it does right upon the eve of the National Republican Convention, which is now in session at Minneapolis, the resignation of Mr. Blaine is taken by many to mean that he is a candidate for the Presidency.

"With the earth cease to revolve" asks the St. Louis Republic. Well, that may depend largely upon whether or not its revolution should be come in any way distasteful to the present Kentucky Legislature which, while costing the people nearly $1,000 per day, has recently spent one day "resolving" against a newspaper and the most of another resolving that from some source not quite clearly set out and through some means not quite plainly described, "The people should have relief."

The truth is that the first demand of the people is to be relieved of a body of incompetent men who have been taken to make laws for the great State of Kentucky.

One of two things is true—either Ohio county has just had a corrupt or incompetent Grand Jury or the people who a few weeks ago were so vociferous in their denunciations of Hartford and Ohio county are wantonly recreant or were ignorantly deluded when engaged in such a campaign.

It begins to look like this Legislature will devote a little attention to a common road law. Mr. Dickson has gone so far as to offer a resolution calling for the appointment of a committee to investigate the road system of other States with a view to the possible improvement of the road system of Kentucky. As this Legislature is not limited as to time, there will be no hurry as to this very important matter.

The pictures have been received from Hartford, and the visitors who brought them have returned to their homes. They were royally entertained by the State's expense and considered themselves as highly pleased with the State and her people.

Legislation failed to use the $15,000 of the World's Fair appropriation consequent to a State Centennial, consequently a resolution has been offered in the House to carry this amount back to the general expenditure fund of the State, leaving $85,000 to the credit of the World's Fair Commissioners.

Mr. James is about to proceed with his measure providing for two more lady Commissioners for the World's Fair.

The Legislature is 150 days old today and the session just fairly begun. Under the strictures of the new Constitution a new session will just be getting under way, and its committees, elect its officers, draw its $300 per member and adjourn.

Mr. James is about to proceed with his measure providing for two more lady Commissioners for the World's Fair.

EXPENSIVE LAW-MAKING.

Kentucky, With the burden of an inflated Legislature added to an inflated Board of Education, is about to have a new Board of Education. A Proposed General Road Law—The State Fair Matter.

Special Correspondence of the Herald.

FRANKFORT, Ky., June 4, 1892.

The State is today in need of funds to carry on business, and the Legislature realizing the necessity for more money has fixed the tax rate back at the old figure, 47 cents on each hundred dollars worth of property. The Republicans in the Senate to a man voted against raising the tax rate 5 cents. The bill had an emergency clause and became operative at once. The Auditor has prepared circular letters to be sent to the sheriffs notifying them of this change and admonishing them to be exceedingly diligent in collecting taxes. The report of the Treasurer for May 31 shows a deficit in the general expenditure fund of $19,700.00. The balance in the Treasury for the same date is $201,480.06, this amount being balanced by the Sinking Fund and School Fund. There is still funds on hand to pay the per diem of the General Assembly and other State expenses, but the general expenditure fund will have to refund to the other funds all that it owes, hence the urgency in collecting this year's taxes. The sheriffs and the people have to settle promptly this time.

Dr. James has succeeded in getting the local option law for Milwaukee county repealed. The Senate and House are still at loggerheads over the judicial reorganizing bill and have been compelled to appoint a conference committee to settle these differences. If the Legislature does all it should before taking a summer recess, it will not get away before frost.

FRIGHTFUL WRECK.

Two O. & N. Trains, Loaded With Coal, Freight, Crash Into Each Other Near South Carrollton, Ky.

THE DEAD AND INJURED.

The worst wreck that ever occurred in the section of the country took place at the bridge's home last Thursday. Two great west-bound trains, loaded with coal, freight, crashed into each other near South Carrollton, Ky. The train from Louisville, headed by a locomotive, was on the main track, and the train from Nashville, headed by a locomotive, was on the branch track. The collision occurred at a point where the tracks crossed at an angle. The result was a terrible crash, and the two trains were thrown into a tangled mass. The locomotives were crushed, and the passenger cars were overturned. The death toll was high, and the property loss was enormous.

He has been a prominent figure in the political world, and his decision is a significant one. He has been a member of the National Convention for several years, and has been a vocal supporter of the Republican party. His decision to decline the race is a surprise to many of his supporters.
